Ex-Governor of Texas Favors Tax Credit For Debt Payments

W. P. Hobby, Publisher, Asks House Group to Aid Small Business

W. P. Hobby, publisher of the Houston Post and former Governor clude in the new tax bill a pro- night. vision allowing small businesses Hallie Miller, 32; 5 feet 6 inches, having no war contracts to credit 116 pounds, brown eyes, auburn against income taxes amounts paid on debts incurrred prior to January

Such action, Mr. Hobby told the committee, "will not hurt the Treasury, but really help it in the long run and at the same time prevent a sentence of death being passed on thousands of businesses in this country.' The credit he proposed would be to January 1, 1940. The Texan asserted many business concerns went into debt "before any one in this country visualized huge war appropriations. which have become necessary * * and must be financed by increased der which they were incurred "were Nick Dean Sentenced based upon the old tax rates, with the expectation that any increase would be only a normal one." Nothing Left for Debts.

After paying taxes contemplated to finance the war, Mr. Hobby said, the business involved "will have nothing left to apply on their legitimate dents and, therefore, will face the bitter alternative of foreclosure, liquidation or bankruptcy."

The publisher told the committee "the same principle was recognized by Congress in granting to war industries the right to amortize in five years for tax purposes their investments in new war production facilities."

"The incentive for granting relief for the businesses for which I speak." he said, "seems much greater. These firms have no war contracts and no prospects of getting such taxes. On the contrary they face this year and in succeeding years greatly reduced revenues in the face of increasing costs and rapidly rising

"They are trying to find some way to avoid being hurt so badly they will not be able to pay taxes at life or death and they want to

Referring to the recent suspension of publication of the Dallas Journal and the Kansas City Journal, Mr. Hobby said he did not contend that "taxes alone killed these newspapers, but a combination of taxes. rising costs and shrinking revenue did kill them." "Their death is sympomatic," he added. Questioned by Representative Treadway, Republican, of Massachusetts, Mr. Hobby said Presi-dent Roosevelt's goal of $7,000,000 - block further investigation," Mr. ent Roosevelt's goal of $7,000,000,-000 in new taxes probably could not | Correa told the court. Mr. Treadway asked the witness of he had any recommendations for raising that amount of revenue other than those proposed by the Treasury. "I think a sales tax is preferable,"

Mr. Hobby said, adding that he believed the people of Texas would approve such a levy. "I think that the people would prefer to pay a sales tax rather than have businesses go down," Mr. Hobby explained. "I think it ought John W. Brooks, vice president and Miss Julia Pollock Rites to be a retail sales tax." treasurer of Pass & Segmour, Inc., Syracuse, N. Y., urged that smaller companies be allowed to retain enough of their earnings to finance expansion programs necessary to provide employment after the war. Graduated Scale Urged. He suggested that invested capital credit be on a graduated scale for smaller companies so they "may be permitted to survive" and accumulate funds "with which to win the peace, after winning the war," as he expressed doubt that many small businesses "can survive" under taxes proposed by the Treasury. The excess profit credit he proposed, computed on the basis of in- born in Fredericksburg, Va., and vested capital, would range from 15 per cent on the first $500,000 of net invested capital to 8 per cent on capital in excess of $2,500,000. The 20 per cent tax levied in the 1941 tax bill, Mr. Parton said, "is neither fair nor equitable" and is "highly discriminatory."

Of the 11,000,000 boxes in the United States, Mr. Parton said, less than 50 per cent are rented with the average rental price of the small depositor's box being $4 a year. Many renters, he said, have given up their boxes rather than pay the new tax, and "the law of diminishing returns is taking effect." Lew Ayres' Movies Banned in Boston

Loose Money' Here Held Crime Cause by McCarran

Washington was described as the 'honey pot of the world" last night by Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee, who warned that "loose money" here might cause a crime wave. Senator McCarran's remarks were made during the course of an inspection of regular and auxiliary detectives at their nightly lineup in police headquarters. Accompanying him were Commissioner John Russell Young and Police Superintendent Edward K. Kelly. The Nevada Senator congratulated the detectives on their work during the past six months, but warned against overconfidence. "Don't fool yourselves into thinking that those waves of crime won't come again," he said.

Because "more money is turned loose in the city than in any place in the world," Washington is an obvious objective of criminals, he

Jefferson Breaks Own Salvage Record on First Vacation Day

Turns In 8,552 Pounds in Effort To Regain Leadership

Jefferson Junior High School yesterday celebrated the first day of the Easter holidays by turning in the largest amount of newspapers and magazines in The Evening Star-P.-T. T. Salvage for Victory camhas so far recorded.

Co-operating completely in the Roosevelt appeal to keep the paper flowing in, vacations or otherwise, Jefferson students turned in 7,399 pounds of Central paper and 1,153 pounds of maga-zines in a determined bid to regain the lost city leadership which fell Adams _____ 26,995 Banneker Morgan to Garrison and then to Powell Truesdell Whittier Junior in two successive weeks. Whether Jefferson is back in the Coolidge lead will depend upon what Garri- Keene son turns in today and Powell Takoma Junior tomorrow.

As a whole, yesterday's collections Paul Bright were somewhat below what sponsors | Brightwood of the program had hoped to obtain, West but, nevertheless, nearly 10 tons Macfarland were picked up which is a creditable Powell showing for a vacation day. If the pace is not better throughout the rest of the week, hopes of reaching the 2,000,000-pound Eddy Concert Postponed mark by the end of the week hardly wil be realized. Quite a few children in the 3d district were observed this morning actively collecting paper and when they take it to their schools tomorrow morning the results may be better.

The Birney School in its second collection since re-instatement yesterday turned in 1,209 pounds which speaks well for a school which was at one time dropped for failure to make the 200-pound minimum. Garnet-Patterson with 2,377, Giddings with 1,375 and Wallach with 1,264 also marked up good totals for the day. Another of the re-instated schools which made excellent progress recently is the Mott School which is on the collection list again tomorrow. Mott has turned in 2,949 pounds, 1,688 pounds, 6,029 pounds and 2,310 pounds for the last four collections demonstrating clearly that the students at that school are taking this defense measure seriously. Maryland schools are in session this week and they are expected to keep up the excellent work which Characterized by United States they have been doing in recent weeks. They will help swell the totals tomorrow and Thursday.
